Round the World in 80 trees

Liquidambar styraciflua

The itinerary takes place in a 400 metre path bordered by 80 species of trees making an imaginary map of the world. Flora of each continent is represented not only by these trees but also by bushes, herbaceous and climbers.

The journey starts on the right of the path in North America and finishes at the end of the path in Europe. On the left hand side turning back continues Europe and finishes with Oceania. Each one of these trees are sponsored by a child who committed himself to take care of its conservation.
